

HOST A

MEET THE FARMER!

Would you like to better KNOW YOUR FARMERS?

What is a "Meet the Farmer"?

It's a way for us at Grinnell Heritage Farm to spend time during the non-growing season to better know our CSA shareholders. It's also an opportunity for you to invite friends and neighbors over who might be interested in learning more about CSA and sustainable agriculture.

What do I need to do to host a "Meet the Farmer"?

Schedule a date with Andy and Melissa, invite a few friends for dinner that may be interested in CSA, and open your home to an evening of good food and company.

What will the format of the event be?

From experience, potluck-style is often the most engaging for everyone, plus it gives others the opportunity to show off their cooking skills! GHF will bring the veggie soup and raw veggie tray. Andy and Melissa will then talk about the farm, show pictures, and talk about the upcoming growing season.

Can I host this at my place of business?

Absolutely, especially if you think your company is looking for wellness ideas. Many companies are trying to find ways to keep their employees happy and healthy and eating local organic food is a great fit.
